A long, long time ago, all of the land animals wore shoes. But these were not regular shoes. These animals wore high heels! This caused many problems. You see, the monkeys couldn't climb trees in high heels. So they now had no way to reach the fruit, twigs, and leaves that they ate. The cheetah of course had no way to catch any meat to eat because it's impossible to run in high heels. The animals were starving to death! Then, one miserable day, when the land animals were sitting, laying or standing around (in the birds case - flapping and flying because landing was so hard) they heard a sound. It seemed to be coming fast. But that's impossible! How could something be fast in high heels? The animals thought. He could be a threat. But it was too late to do anything now! The animals saw that he was human. They also saw that he was able to run fast because he was not wearing high heels! The man thought it was strange to see animals in shoes. Seeing how hungry they animals looked he was able to guess what had happened. He wondered why they didn't take them off. It could solve all their problems! But when he showed them this they just stared at him as if he was crazy. After a lot of tempting and explaining the animals let him take their Shoes off. The man thought they would feel better right away. But after being in high heels all their life they had tender feet. The human refused to give up. He put bark and leaves on their feet. In a few weeks they were all able to be barefoot. They taught their children going barefoot was healthier and more comfortable. And so now, thanks to the man, the animals will always be without shoes! The End.
